<https://www.supremecourt.uk/cases/docs/uksc-2015-0233-press-summary.pdf>

The Supreme Court has found the Order introducing Employment Tribunal fees to be unlawful and discriminatory and is therefore quashed. How quickly the government will react to this and whether a fee scheme which is linked to income will be introduced remains to be seen...

There may be further repercussions... will individuals who would have brought a claim but for the fees have any redress?
