

Well, it is the silly season...

So I thought you might enjoy a very serious look at the office politics of... hugging.

If you're looking for an insight into the hugging culture of Canadian law enforcement, this is the article for you.

Apparently, a hug "shows trust and validates that the client is special". And that's a good thing. Isn't it?

the gradations of hug discomfort depend upon nuances, relationships, and personal preferences.

 <http://www.bbc.co.uk/news/business-40580986>

