Introduction

Andrew joined Chambers in 2020 from an in-house role with HMRC working in civil fraud and tax with particular expertise in insolvency and proceeds of crime litigation, including freezing injunctions and search orders. Andrew qualified in Australia in 2013 where he practiced largely in crime and child protection for Victoria Legal Aid.

Since joining Chambers, Andrew has acted across the range of Chambers work in family (public and private matters), employment, property and personal injury. Andrew has a particular interest in civil fraud and insolvency.

When time permits, he enjoys food and wine, playing golf and discovering new music and writers.

Employment Law

Andrew accepts instructions in all employment related matters. Recently, Andrew has been instructed in relation to redundancy, unfair dismissal for gross misconduct and unlawful deduction of wages claims. Andrew has also given advice in relation to breach of fiduciary duty by company directors in the context of unfair dismissal and unlawful discrimination.
