Jessica is a specialist family practitioner.

Her particular expertise is in public law children cases involving chronic neglect, domestic abuse, substance misuse and non-accidental injury, representing parents, children's guardians and other family members.

Jessica acts for parents and grandparents in a wide range of family law and private law children applications, dealing with cases involving allegations of domestic violence, sexual abuse and substance misuse.

She is regularly instructed in cases of a complex and sensitive nature and has particular expertise in handling difficult and vulnerable clients.
